Summer Internship Programme

Arts and Heritage Internships

Application deadline 9th April 2018.
Click on the title links for more details.

Museum Research Internship, State Museum of the History of St Petersburg, Russia

This is an opportunity for two Oxford students to gain an insight into museum work. Interns can choose various tasks according to their interests. Social research and Historical research projects will be available. Projects will involve data collection and analysis, and/or research on a specific topic relating to the work of the museum.

Biology Museum Education Internship, Instituto Butantan, Brazil

The Instituto Butantan Cultural Department offers to different audiences educational activities in three museums: Biology Museum, History Museum and Museum of Microbiology. Each museum is dedicated to specific contents and has different narratives, collections and displays. The Oxford student will be able to observe and participate in the educational activities for families and school groups and create educational materials.

Academic Event Management Internship, Georg Eckert Institute for International Textbook Research, Germany

The Georg Eckert Institute for International Textbook Research (GEI) is seeking an intern to assist with the planning and organisation of the 2018 Georg Arnhold International Summer School on Prevention of Violent Extremism through Education (PVE-E).

Historical Archives Internship, Czech National Heritage Institute, Czech Republic

This two-month Erasmus-funded summer internship comprises two parts: Supporting internationally exhibiting artist and Oxford Professor of Art Daria Martin through archival research about Villa Stiassni, the childhood home of Professor Martin’s grandmother. Thinking creatively about ways that the Czech Heritage Institute might better communicate Brno’s unique legacy of Modernist architecture.

Computer Gaming Design Internship, University of Masaryk - Department of Computer Graphics and Design, Czech Republic

This two month Erasmus-funded summer internship presents the opportunity to assist gaming programmers at the University of Masaryk’s innovative computing department, within the European capital of gaming, Brno, to create the foundations for a fine-art interactive video game exploring the histories of a local Modernist villa.

Curatorial Assistant Internship, Museum of Modern Art Dubrovnik, Croatia

The Museum of Modern Art Dubrovnik offers internships for undergraduate and postgraduate students interested in pursuing museum career or in fields related to the visual arts. Interns will participate in the ongoing work of the Curatorial Department. The objective of the internship program is to offer practical museum training experience where interns assist professional staff, provide administrative support, produce content and assist in management of social media channels, help organize activities at the museum and learn more about the modern and contemporary Croatian and European Art.